

Painting White Smocks

Painting white uniforms or winter smocks is not difficult, but certainly not as straightforward as it may look at first glance. Do you paint the figure white? Well, not exactly...

How do you make the details appear? How do you prevent your figures from looking like white ghosts? Well, read on, not a difficult technique, but always useful to know.

The technique we show you here is exactly the way our figures were painted

The colors used:

	905 Pale blue grey
	951 White
	846 Mahogany brown
	909 Vermillion

Note: Color samples may not accurately reflect the actual Vallejo paint color

Prime figure.

Note: the weapon, equipment and face of the figure were painted first for aesthetic purposes. We advise you to paint those last.

Step 2 Paint all white parts with 905 Pale blue-grey.

Step 3

Now a thick highlight of the white parts with 951 white.

For Western front Germans you can stop at this stage.

Step 4

If you wish to put identification bands on the arms (mostly eastern front) paint 846 Mahogany brown.

Step 5

Highlight with 909 Vermilion.

All done! Happy Painting!
